

On April 4, 1968, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was assassinated in Memphis where he stood with sanitation workers demanding their rights and their dream of a better life.

On April 4, 2011, on the job, in our schools and in our communities, we will stand together to remind elected officials that workers' rights are human rights.

JOIN US TO MAKE APRIL 4 A DAY TO STAND IN SOLIDARITY

---

Find your own way to commemorate the death of Dr. King and celebrate our civil and human rights. Activities can include:

- Wearing "We Are One" sticker to school
- Holding a small vigil after school
- Organizing teach-ins by students on college campuses
- Participating in rallies at the statehouse
